Commission can not call for new election

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

Commissioners in Belle Glade were told Monday night by their attorney, John Baker, they have no authority to take any action on recent events concerning the Sept. 22 city election.

Arrests were made Feb. 3 of 19 people who allegedly voted illegally in the election. Agents with the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) arrested the 19, who are accused of voting in a city election while living outside the city limits.

The election runoff between Commissioner Dan Bythwood and political newcomer Ed Rongione ended with Bythwood taking five more votes than his challenger.

Attorney Baker said he had asked for advice on the matter from The Law Source, a Gainesville research institute, after Commissioner Steve Weeks questioned the validity of the election.

"I respect the quality of work this firm does," Attorney Baker said. "I have used them in the past."

He said the 11-page reply advises the only recourse is that a citizen can file a complaint with the State Attorney General's office.

"The attorney general would then file a suit and a judge would determine if the (Bythwood's) seat was valid," Baker said.

When contacted Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Rongione said he has faxed a copy of the recommendation by the Law Source to his attorney and he is awaiting counsel.

"We are looking at it and we will decide what to do," he said. "At this point, this is too important an issue to have it just dropped. I think we have to examine all the possibilities."

"It does appear it was not a fair election," he said. "The election was definitely tainted," he added.

The Glades Branch of the NAACP has protested the arrest of the 19 people. Local NAACP President Larry Konchell has said he feels blacks were unfairly targeted in the voter fraud investigation. All those arrested were black. Commissioner Bythwood is black. Mr. Rongione is white.

FDLE officials deny the allegations. They say the agency randomly checked every precinct.

Farm interest wants probe of U.S. Attorney's office

United States Sugar Corporation has asked President Clinton to consider appointing a special prosecutor to investigate the conduct of the Miami U.S. Attorney's office in the four-year-old Everglades lawsuit.

"The handling of this case by the U.S. Attorney's staff has been rife with irregularities that together represent a major abuse of power," said Robert H. Buker, senior vice president, on behalf of the company.

The letter emphasized the call was not for an investigation of the U.S. Attorney Robert Martinez, who has excused himself from the case, but of a team headed by Assistant U.S. Attorney Susan Pon-zoli.

In this latest development in what some are calling the "Gladesgate" scandal, the letter to the President detailed numerous irregularities, highlighting the detainment, one week ago, of Duke University Wetlands Center scientists at the Loxahatchee National

Officer and waitress injured in incident at Dale's Dugout Sat. night

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

They'll be no more pay-per-view television programs offered at Dale's Dugout after an incident Saturday night, according to Manager Dale Alston.

Police were called to the lounge about 10 p.m. Feb. 20 when some angry patrons began throwing bottles and cinder blocks after learning they would not be able to watch a televised fight of a popular boxer. Dale's Dugout, formerly The Banyan Tree, is located at 1533 N.W. Ave. L.

Patrons had paid $10 each to watch the boxing match, but Mr. Alston said they had problems with their satellite dish and the program could not air.

Between 500 and 600 people were at the location when the trouble started. One waitress, Adlene Hernandez, 19, received a cut on her forehead and right cheek which required stitches and Patrolman John Wilber of the Belle Glade Police Department was hit in the back of the head and required stitches. Both are believed to have been cut with broken beer bottles.

One of the patrons, later identified as Sergio Lopez, 29, of 285 First Street, South Bay was arrested after he began spraying others with chemical mace, officers said. He was charged with opposing and obstructing a police officer and resisting arrest without violence.

Louis Lowery, Inspector for the Belle Glade Police Department, said approximately 30 officers were called to the scene. "Fortunately we were having a shift change so we had the available officers," he said.

The bar has a legal seating capacity of 191. Inspector Lowery said no charges were pressed against the lounge owner because officers had no way of knowing how many were in the bar before the fight broke out. Many of the estimated 500 to 600 people were in the parking lot by the time officers arrived.

Mr. Alston said everyone was returned their money, even some who had not paid because there was no way of knowing who had or had not paid. "If they said they paid, we gave them back their money. We gave out more money than we took in," he said.

It took officers over two hours to clear the area. Mr. Alston said damage to the building was limited to broken windows, which were repaired on Sunday.

Mr. Alston said he met with Chief of Police Michael Miller and Inspector Lowery after the incident.

"We intend to have their input and to run our bar in such a way that this kind of incident never happens again," he said.

U.S. Sugar calls for "environmental peace"

United States Sugar Corporation President and CEO J. Nelson Fairbanks has offered a plan for environmental peace to end the years-long battle over Everglades cleanup. The plan would "make both the Everglades and jobs the winners," he said.

Mr. Fairbanks, who heads Florida's oldest and largest sugar-producing company, The proposal also calls for a fair division of responsibility between farmers and the public for meeting the standards. Implementation would make use of tradable Everglades going to the Loxahatchee National Wildlife Preserve and Everglades National Park.

In the proposal, Fairbanks offered to drop lawsuits against the government's cleanup plan, accept government-mandated water quality standards and stormwater treatment areas and guarantee cleanup of pollution caused by farmers. The proposal also calls for a fair division of responsibility between farmers and the public for meeting the standards. Implementation would make use of tradable Everglades

Festival a big success

Pahokee's first Lake Okeechobee Classic Festival and Bike Ride was a rousing success, according to all who participated.

The event, held last Saturday, raised between $5,000 and $8,000 for Habitat for Humanity.

Pahokee City Manager Ken Schenck said the Festival portion raised between $2,000 and $3,000 - final figures aren't in yet; and Habitat Vice President John Nasby said the Bike Ride segment raised about $5,000.

All of the Festival money, and a percentage of the Bike Ride money will go to the new Habitat chapter in the Glades area, said Mr. Nasby.

City Manager Schenck said he'd gotten lots of favorable comments from participants, some of whom had never seen the Glades area before.

"It was a lot different from what they expected; they were impressed," he said.

Planning for next year's Lake Okeechobee Classic is already underway.

Moon walking...Children at the Lake Okeechobee Classic Festival had a good time bouncing around in the Moon Walk. Organizers say the festival was a success and plans are already underway for next year's event.

use of tradable Everglades restoration credits.

"After listening to all sides in the Everglades dispute," Mr. Fairbanks said, "I believe that we are closer to an agreement than any of us recognizes." He said that during the struggle over the Everglades SWIM plan, farmers have distrusted supporters of the federal-state settlement agreement that mandates the clean-up because they fear losing their livelihood and thousands of jobs throughout South Florida.

Environmentalists distrust anyone resisting the settlement agreement, he added.

"Despite the angry words, I see broad common ground on which to build a lasting environmental peace — one that preserves both farm jobs and the Everglades," Mr. Fairbanks said.

"Everyone of good will wants the Everglades restored," he said. "Everyone of good will wants to preserve the livelihood of farm families."

"With a fair division of responsibilities, we can have an environmental peace that makes both the Everglades and jobs the winners," he said.

The proposal outlined says:

1. Farmers would end their opposition to the Everglades Settlement Agreement between the state and federal governments. The agreement was announced in July 1991 after months of secret talks from which farmers were excluded. Since then, U.S. Sugar and other farmers have contested the mandated Everglades water quality standards and the $400 million stormwater treatment areas. Numerous lawsuits were filed against the agreement. Farmers believe that putting most of the agreement's costs on their shoulders would drive them out of business, destroying South Florida's more than 38,000 farm-related jobs.

Mr. Fairbanks said as part of an environmental peace agreement, the lawsuits would be dropped. "That means we would accept the water quality standards and the stormwater treatment areas, despite our doubts," he said.

2. The plan calls for "a fair division of responsibility between farmers and the public for meeting the standards."

"If we farmers pollute, we should pay to clean up the pollution," said Mr. Fairbanks. "But if we don't, it is only fair that we shouldn't."

Under the plan, if farmers add a pound of phosphorus to the water beyond what enters their land through the atmosphere, irrigation and underground seepage from Lake Okeechobee and public canals, the farmers would be required to take a pound out or to pay to have it taken out. At the same time, "getting water cleaner than one pound out on our land equals only one pound off is a public responsibility for which government should pay."

3. The plan calls for a fair division of responsibility among levels of government. "If all parts of Florida are united behind a plan to save jobs and the environment," Fairbanks said, "how can Washington fail to step up to its fair share?"

To date, no one directly involved in the dispute has addressed the federal role in paying for Everglades restoration.

"Editorialists around the state have noted that the federal government and the Corps of Engineers created the major share of the Everglades problem and should accept most of the government responsibility for fixing it," Fairbanks said.

He said the federal role should go beyond phosphorus cleanup to getting "the flow of water through the Everglades — hydroperiod — right, as well as the eradication of melaleuca and other exotic species."

The "plumbing problem," Fairbanks said, is a product of federal initiatives dating as far back as the first decade of this century. These initiatives produced the system of canals, dikes and other water projects that have made much of South Florida habitable. "But, they also diverted the natural flow of water through the Everglades, creating major ecological problems. The federal government needs to address all of these issues," Fairbanks said.

4. According to Mr. Fairbanks, a consensus has developed supporting the tradable Everglades restoration credits plan developed by Dr. Robert Hahn, an economist with the American Enterprise Institute in Washington and Harvard University. Hahn is a consultant for U.S. Sugar.

Farmers who decide to pay for someone else to handle their phosphorus-removal obligations should have the flexibility to pay whoever can handle it cheapest," Mr. Fairbanks said. "They may pay through buying restoration credits from other farmers or through buying participation in the state-sponsored storm water treatment areas or other regional facilities. Credits would provide an incentive to develop more effective and cheaper phosphorus clean-up technology, which is good for all of us."

Under the plan, using restoration credits, the state would determine how many pounds of phosphorus enter an average acre of farmland from the atmosphere, irrigation and seepage. Farmers would receive one credit per pound based on their acreage and could discharge only that many pounds into the public canals.

Farmers who discharge fewer pounds could sell their surplus credits to those who exceed their limit. The result would be a strong financial incentive to develop inexpensive, highly effective clean-up technologies. The lower clean-up costs would save farms and farm jobs. The more effective technology would contribute to Everglades restoration.

scientist with prosecution if he tested Everglades cleanup methods.

5. The U.S. Attorney's office refused to allow the National Academy of Sciences to be brought in to evaluate the scientific issues in the dispute.

The U.S. Attorney's staff has disrupted at every turn efforts to scientifically evaluate Everglades problems, inhibiting research and hindering access to sample and evaluate data.

Of the request for a special prosecutor, the letter added, it is not made lightly. It is unusual, even unprecedented. But the pending prosecution of the Duke scientists for taking water samples suggests an office drunk with the arrogance of power. The Justice Department itself is not the right agency to examine abuses that may have received at least silent assent from supervisors in Washington. Federal rules, if not Federal laws, may have been violated."

Dr. David Boltson is the associate director of the Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic in Belle Glade, and is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Lake Worth.

Husband abuses wife and kids

Dear Dr. Boltson,

I am a married woman with three great kids and a husband who takes good care of us.

He's a good man, a kind man. Most of the time. But when he drinks, he gets mean. Ugly. Vicious.

When he drinks, he beats up on us. All of us, even the baby.

I'm scared of him, afraid he'll kill me or one of the kids. I've thought about taking the kids away somewhere, but I got no money, nowhere to go. He'd just come after us. He'd kill me for sure then.

Even though I'm afraid of him, I still love him. He's a good man, except when he drinks.

What should I do, Dr. Boltson? I am gong crazy over him. Please help me.

Sincerely,
(Please don't use my name)
K.M., Belle Glade

Dear K.M.:

First of all, I must say that you should never, never be beat up by your husband; not even if he says he loves you; not even if he's been drinking; not even if he apologizes afterwards.

It sounds like there are many problems that your family needs help with, but you won't be able to solve any of them while you are being beat up or if you fear for your life.

If you need a safe place to stay for yourself or your children, you can call Harmony House at (407) 655-6106. They have a free shelter for battered wives.

You do have the option of calling the police and pressing charges, but because you say you love him, I know you will probably not want to do this.

It is very important that you contact someone immediately so that you can get assistance and support. Both you and your husband are in severe need of counseling, although it will probably be best if you go on your own at first (your husband will probably refuse to go).

You may call the West County Mental Health Clinic at 992-1330 and ask to speak to Denise Lewis, our adult therapist. You may tell her that Dr. Boltson said that you should be considered a priority case.

With someone on your side you will have a much better chance of improving your life situation.

If you would like to anonymously inquire about issues regarding yourself or your acquaintances, you may do so by writing to Dr. Boltson. You don't even have to give your name or address. Just mail all questions to:

Looking forward to the time when February will be "Love" month

The United States should be grateful to Carter G. Woodson, who in 1916 founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, and thereby set in place a mechanism for Americans to learn about the accomplishments of their African-descendant countrymen.

Slavery, nor the oppressive systems that became part and parcel of the national agenda following slavery, allowed the treatment of black people's intelligence as equal to that of whites. Therefore, Carter Woodson's mission was mammoth. He must not only make information available, but he must also create, in a hostile environment, interest in that information.

Mr. Woodson's good intentions and astute knowledge of the contributions African-Americans had made to the development of the United States, sparked research, and publications in this area among scholars throughout the world. His organization forced America to make room - although small - to deal with the black accomplishment. As a result of Woodson's efforts, first, Negro History Week, and now, Black History Month, is observed in February each year - the shortest month of the year.

Though deeply grateful to Carter Woodson for moving this country beyond its ignoring of the major role blacks played in the pioneering of America, I am looking forward to the day when his contribution will take a different posture in our country's history - when the research and information about the African-American's contribution will no longer be relegated to prominence once of twelve months in a year. When, in fact, that information will be included accurately in history books and consistently in all academic subjects studied by all students, in all schools.

This will be the beginning of change in America, because underlying most problems in America - social, judicial, economic, educational - is the issue of "race" and the lack of mutual respect.

It is easy to assess blame for this situation, because African-Americans historically have not been allowed influential roles in determining what information is included in history books utilized by American students. Blame is irrelevant now, however, because we must at some point look at our glass as half-full, rather than half-empty. The half-full glass implies that progress can be made. The fact that Africans have not been included significantly in history books has allowed Americans to continue a class system that implies their inferiority. If you have someone who perceptually only benefits from what others have done and does nothing himself, then you have a "dependent", rather than a "driver".

But, if you consider, Egypt, located on the African continent, is one of the most technologically advanced civilizations in history as we know it. You should acknowledge that the precepts of medical practice as we know it today derived from Imhotep, an Egyptian, and not from his student, Hippocrates. You should acknowledge that "chemistry" as a science was developed in Egypt, and that the word itself is a variation of the original name of the country, "Kemet". You should also acknowledge that the pyramids, proven to be so architecturally precise and mathematically exact in their construction that the methods of their structure remain a mystery, are unreplicable by any civilization in modern history. And, you should acknowledge that the original Egyptians were Nubians, bearing virtually no resemblance to the settler population occupying that country today. But instead were dark, broad-nosed Africans, much like our average black countrymen in America. Then you must understand the impact of African intelligence in the world differently that the common perceptions accommodated by slavery.

The writers of history books used in American schools have been analogous to the "Rodney King Jury". They were eye-witnesses to history that selectively ignored what they saw and utilized another personal agenda to determine how they would judge it. For the Rodney King jury, the act was overt. They saw a man lying on the ground being beaten within inches of his life. Yet, they assigned stereotypical attributes of strength to the victim, a black man. And, looking at the film of his ordeal in slow motion, convinced themselves that Rodney King was, in fact, in control of that situation - lunging at the eight officers who were beating and kicking him in self-defense. And the jury "believed" that if those officers had not beaten Rodney King so severely, he would have been able to get up and overpower all of them.

Most Americans educated in the nation's public school system, more so since schools were integrated than before, do not have accurate information on black people's contribution to the development of this country. That is a double-edged sword of destruction that on the one hand sends a message to African-American students that their ancestors have not made a contribution. And, on the other hand, it gives white students a false perception of the contribution of their ancestors have made. It appears from this that the problems we have in race relations are predicated on misconceptions on both sides, that could be eradicated by correcting the way history is presented in school.

If students were taught that the most significant contributions African-Americans have made to the development of the United States have been in science, medicine and inventions, African-American young men and women would strive to be stronger students in those areas. They would know that whatever their ancestors were capable of doing, they also are capable of doing. While young white men and women would grow up to respect their African-American countrymen as indeed "equal" contributors.

Equality requires mutual respect. And once white Americans are educated properly about the contributions black Americans have made in this country, and in the world, their willingness to cooperate on the issues of equal rights will increase. At that point, we will indeed have an accurate determination of "intelligence" on both sides of the aisle. And February can be the month when we celebrate "Valentine's Day" and love for humankind.

Letters to the editor

A letter to the community

Dear Glades residents:

In the February 19, 1993, local section of the Palm Beach Post, the Glades Community-Based Development Project received some most favorable media coverage. However, it was erroneously implied throughout the report that I had been instrumental in the successes of this "cutting edge" community initiative.

From the beginning, the Glades Community-Based Development Project has been a total team effort. Each stakeholder has taken very seriously the responsibility to address the needs of all residents of Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee. Consequently, a lot of accomplishments have been achieved in a short period of time.

With that in mind, the accolades should be attributed to the past and current members of the Glades Community Board, the Community Foundation for Palm Beach and Martin Counties Board and staff, the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur, Charles Stewart Mott and Bernard Van Leer Foundations and to each individual, group, agency and organization willing to work toward enabling the residents of the Glades community to design and implement sustainable solutions to all our problems.

Round two of lien law reform

Dear Editor:

In 1992, a legislative bill of reform (HB-419), concerning the notorious Florida Construction

Lien Law, died a slow death in the Florida House of Representatives.

The cause of death at that time was simple. Not one Florida State Senator would sponsor a companion bill in the Florida State Senate.

Today, 1993, there are 19 new Florida State Senators and almost 50 new faces in the House of Representatives.

As a result, the Lien Law Reform Bill is back. In the House, it is House Bill 1215 and in the Senate, thanks to Senator Karen Johnson (D) of Inverness, it is Senate - 552.

The original sponsor in 1992, Paul Hawkes (R) Crystal River, has once again sponsored the bill. Also, Senator Charles Williams (D) Live Oak, has promised his support.

The much badly needed reform will remove the "consumer" from the potentially dangerous condition of having to pay for their home twice. Single and two family homes will be excluded from the provisions of the Lien Law meaning once you pay your bill for new construction, you will not have to worry if your builder/contractor did not pay his workers, materials or suppliers.

That responsibility will rest with the builder/contractor - where it rightfully deserves to be.

Contact your State Representative and State Senator for quick passage of these laws and the changes they equate.

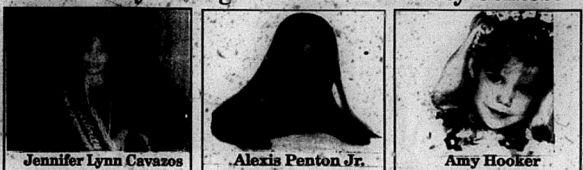

Responsibility brings accountability and at this point, the responsibility for getting this law passed is yours, the consumers. I cannot do it for you; only you can do it for all of us. Do it today. Ask your legislators to "sign on."

Lake Okeechobee Classic

Dike bikers...and it was a hard way to go for Charles Davis, 30, and Lori Van Marlen, 31, both of Miami, seen at right. The two chose to ride atop the dike rather than on the highway for Saturday's Lake Okeechobee Classic. Mr. Davis said there was a stretch of dike with "no road, no trail, no nothing; it was rough," he said. It wore them out and caused them to cut short their ride. Asked about his riding experience, Mr. Davis said he rides weekly. "Very weakly," he added.

Bears, mall, kids...well, it's not exactly a mall, but then, they're not exactly bears, either... The kids are real, though, and they have names. These are them: Tony Loggins, 13, Jo Stull, seven-and-a-half (going on eight), Tommy Burroughs, 7, and Juel Everett, 10. No, 11. The bears are Buddy, left, operated by Michael Kalland, and an as-yet unnamed female, operated by EMH's Lisa Miller. The bears are the hospital's mascots for the Time for Tots program there. They're seen here at Saturday's Lake Okeechobee Classic festival held Saturday at Pahokee's Marina area.

FFA Week is here

More than 401,000 FFA members across the nation are celebrating National FFA Week this week, February 22 - 26.

This year's theme is "FFA, the Spirit of Leadership."

FFA is a national organization of 401,000 members in 7,800 local chapters preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business, and technology of agriculture.

"Our members are the future leaders of tomorrow's industry," said Larry Case, national FFA Advisor.

National FFA Week is conducted each year during the week of Washington's birthday to recognize his leadership and commitment to American agriculture.

Locally, FFA is represented by the Belle Glade FFA Chapter, headquartered at Glades Central Community High School. The local chapter is under the direction of Michael Thompson, FFA Advisor.

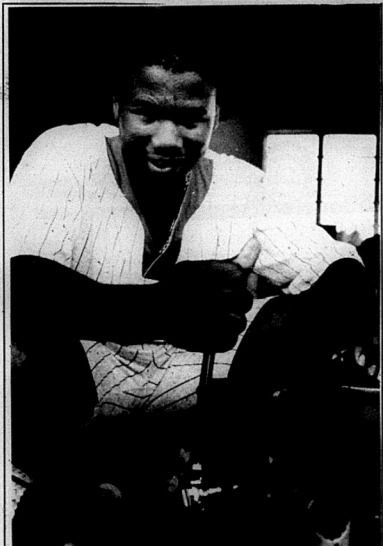

Mr. Thompson said one primary goal of FFA is to develop decision-making abilities and sharpen the students' powers of observation.

Mr. Thompson said there are 38 students in the local chapter.

Alvaughn Styles...First Place Individual winner in Livestock Judging in a contest held at So. Fla. Fairgrounds in late January. The GCCHS FFA team took third in team livestock judging.

Mr. Master Mechanic...is Garfield Scarlett, candidate for FFA's State Agriculture Mechanical Proficiency Award. The award will be issued in June at the State FFA Convention to be held at Grenelefe Resort near Haines City, Florida.

SC field Trip

Members of student council visited the Solid Waste Authority complex last Thursday. Ms. Linda Rubin, public education specialist, gave much information as to what is being done with Palm Beach County's garbage and waste. A tour was given of three different types of facilities.

Word to the wise. Get your high school education because there were "garbage pickers," paid minimum wages, who pick through the garbage to remove large articles that can't be transformed into energy. What a smelly job!

FBLA Competition

Last Thursday about 50 Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) attended a district convention at Olympic Heights High School. Some members came home winners in various contests.

First Place

I'll be missing you.

Second Place
By Billy Weeks
Roses are red
Violets are blue
Never was there a love that proud unum.

Third Place
By Ramiro Caldenas
Roses are red, Violets are blue,
Valentine's Day is beautiful
with you.

There's no one else to call not even a friend.
It's been hard since your life is now at an end.

I'll miss you in a very special way.
I'll always love you Grandma
Happy Valentine's Day.

Second Place
By Billy Weeks
Roses are red
Violets are blue,
Never was there a love that proud unum.
Never was there a day the sun did not shine.

Never was there a time my heart was not mine.

Always a song to my heart did you sing.
Always a smile to my lips did you bring.
Oh the joy of seeing your face makes my each new day gladly embrace,
The strength of your love makes me strong, it proves to me I am never alone.

Though our bodies may age and fail, and our minds may go, our love for each other ever will grow.

Roses are red Violets are blue,
I wrote the poem just for you.

Third Place
By Ramiro Caldenas
Roses are red, Violets are blue,
Valentine's Day is beautiful
with you.

I'll give you candy, if you'll give me your heart,
I'll even give flowers, to give it a start.

If you'll be my girlfriend, I'll promise to be true,
With a lifetime of love, from me to you.

Please contact us for further information on the pre-planning of a funeral. There is no obligation - we will simply try to answer any questions you may have now to help avoid any unnecessary trauma in the future.

The month of February is almost over and Glades Day students are busy this week cramming for final exams for the fourth grading term. Results will be mailed to parents next week. Hope it's good news for everyone!

GDS was the place to be this past weekend for young hunters. The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission sponsored a 16-hour hunter safety course at the school on Saturday and Sunday. About 25 people graduated from the class, which is mandatory by the State of Florida for all persons born after 1975 who wish to hunt. This is the second year Glades Day has hosted the class for the Wildlife Commission.

Sports enthusiasts may want to take advantage of the volleyball, tennis, and golf tournaments that Glades Day is hosting next month, in conjunction with the Spring Fling. Registration forms for tennis and volleyball will be picked up at the school or by calling 996-6769.

GDS is selling tickets for two 1993 SEA-DOO personal watercraft, complete with ren, May Foy Jackson and Patricia Sterling, both of Belle Glade, Benjamin Allen of Lake City, John Henry Allen Sr. of Lake Worth, Florida, and Andrew Allen of Clearwater, Florida; thirty-nine grandchildren; thirty-two great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

Services were held Saturday, February 20, at St. Paul Church of God in Christ, Belle Glade. Interment was in Foreverglades Mausoleum. Miller Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Jean
Daniel Jean, of 600 S.W. Avenue C in Belle Glade, died February 15 at Glades General Hospital.

Services were held at St. Phillips Catholic Church in Belle Glade. Interment followed at Foreverglades Mausoleum Gardens.

double trailer, for the Spring Fling. Only 500 tickets will be sold at $50 each. Tickets are also available for a drawing on a Winchester Model 422 22-Magnum rifle. The drawing will take place March 13.

Anyone interested in buying tickets for the Spring Fling barbecue may contact GDS or any student/athlete. For $6 per ticket, you will receive a chicken dinner, with all the trimmings. The barbecue will be from 12 noon until 2 p.m. Saturday, March 13.

Now that basketball is over (or nearly), Gator fans can turn their heads toward baseball, softball, and tennis.

The tennis teams began play Feb. 23 and will have their first home match of the season Tuesday, March 2, at the Everglades Athletic Club.

The varsity baseball boys are tuning up for their regular season with a tournament at Benjamin this weekend. The boys will face Moore Haven at 3:30 this Friday at Jack Nicklaus Field in North Palm Beach.

They will then play Benjamin or Plantation-American Heritage on Saturday. The JV baseball and softball teams open their season on March 4 at American Heritage.

The varsity softball girls begin their season on March 2 with a game against Christian Day to be played at Airport Park.

That will be followed by a home game against American Heritage on March 4. The varsity baseball squad will also face the same teams on those dates.

Knighly News

The Crusaders will begin the Sunshine Harbor Christian Book Fair Tuesday, February 23. There will be over $15,000 of Christian books, Bibles, and video and audio cassettes on display in the CDS library.

You will find "something for everyone", pre-school through adult, at his sale: biographies, Christian fiction, comics, coloring and activity books, self-help and parenting books, as well as a large selection of Scripture greeting cards.

Christian Day will receive 25 percent of the Book Fair sales, to be used to purchase books for the Crusader library.

The Book Fair will continue through Friday, February 26, and the library will be open until 5 p.m. each day.

Do not miss out on this opportunity to support your school and to ensure a successful Book Fair!

Top Priority
The Top Priority basketball league is in full swing with one hundred excited fourth - sixth graders. The past four Saturday mornings, the young ball players have practiced and improved several skills, have been placed on teams, and are now preparing for the championship tournament to be held Saturday, February 27. Come on up to the gym and get in on the excitement!

Individual trophies and ribbons will be presented to each player.

Admission is free and hot dogs, hamburgers, nachos and much more will be served at our concession stand. Games begin at 9 a.m. and will conclude by 1 p.m.

Concert
Last Monday night several students went to the Palm Beach Auditorium to a D.C. Talk and Michael W. Smith concert.

With songs in the top ten, these artists gave an outstanding evening of great music. Students, faculty, and parents attending were Amanda Snow, Ashley Cunningham, Nicole Bennett, Ginger Wade, Laura Shiver, Sharon Wetherington, Kelly Miller, Jason Cunningham, Jeremy Wade, Matthew Snow, Courtney Braddock, Ms. Waggoner, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Snow, and Mrs. Shiver.

This Sunday night at 7 p.m., Cornerstone will be in concert at First Baptist Church in Pahokee. Brother Paul Rose, pastor of the church, invites the public to attend the worship service.

LOW BACK PAIN

If back pains are a way of life for you, the reasons can be varied and complex. Some may be pathological, but very often the cause is muscles which are either over or under-exercised which are producing spinal distortion. Vertebrae slip into abnormal positions, resulting in "pinched" and irritated nerves, which cause pain and even loss of function of the affected body part. Poor posture, or even emotional tension, can be the root cause.
